

KALEPO

Do not steal.

He get alone in the jungle tree away from other
monkeys.
But it's no fun to eat the thing that don't belong
to you.

Kalepo bring back
banana,
You only hurt yourself
inside.

Kalepo bring back
banana,
You gotta get it right.

The birds in the jungle,
they heard about Kalepo,
The snake and the burro,
they heard it from the beetle.

They said he was a
naughty boy to take
from the other monkeys.
Everyone hoped that he would learn that it was wrong to steal.

Kalepo the monkey, he
like to eat banana,
But he gets banana not
like the other monkeys.
All of the other monkeys climb the tree to get
banana,
None of them mind the
work it take to climb
banana tree.
But Kalepo the monkey,
he rather steal banana,
He takes from the others all of the fruit they work for.

"Hey, Kalepo better
come back with the
banana or you
gonna be in plenty
hot water man!"

Old Desmond, the lion,
he was the king of the jungle.
One day as he passed by,
he stopped to see
the monkeys.
They told the king about their friend who loved
to steal banana, Desmond, he raised his hairy head and this is what he said,
"Hey, Kalepo, you shame
me, you are a selfish monkey.

By stealing from others
you made yourself
so ugly.
But if you bring back
stolen fruit right now
and say you're sorry, Never to rob your friends again, then we'll be kind

"Hey don't you know...
when Kalepo saw how bad he has been, he brought back the
bananas that time!
There was such a party
... and from then on he climbed the banana tree just like the other
monkeys!"
